The Booms

Aryan Singhal

Listen
Open your ears
Do you hear it
Do you hear them
All around you
The soil
Stained
Remember

And they tell you
And they show you
And they do their hardest
And they echo their words

And they echo their words

And they echo their words

And they echo their words

No

Listen
Open your mind
What are they
How are they

The clangs
The smoke

Remember

But I already learned about it
But I walked past the plaque
But it's just a chapter in a book
But it only lasted a few years

But they didn't know better
But no one could have stopped it
But it's not my guilt to carry
But it was all different then

But why should I care
But it's not my problem
But it's in the past
But it's gone now

But why should I care
But it's not my problem
But it's in the past
But it's gone now

The booms
The screams
The millions
The masses
The lifeless
The horror

For then
Only when you hear
Only when you listen
Will you understand
Will you understand